
ANNOUNCEMENT TO THE ASX

Sydney, 8 July 2011 ~ Inventis Limited (ASX: IVT)

Proposed settlement for the sale of the Technology Division has been delayed.

The Buyer has advised that some procedural steps remain, which they must complete, before the settlement funds can be released into their Australian Solicitor's Trust Account. The Buyer has confirmed that it is attending to these matters today, but it will not be in a position to provide a definitive settlement date until after banks open in New York on Friday morning (approximately 11:00pm tonight, our time).

The Buyer believes that settlement is possible for Monday and is conscious of the procedural and reporting difficulties arising from the unanticipated delays. They are seeking to cooperate fully to overcome the hurdles and thus clear the way for settlement to take place soonest.

We will update the market with further information as it comes to hand.
